POSTLUDE

With Christmas and New Year's day gone, things quickly settle down to normal.

The Christmas tree is stripped of its ornaments and most of its needles and taken to the basement or to the backyard. In either place, it constitutes a problem.

The last of the Christmas candy is put into one dish and eaten up the first time the neighbors come in to spend the evening. The presents are put away. A few of the children's toys are packed up until later in the year.

The misfits—the slippers that are too small and the shirts that are too large—are exchanged, or traded as advantageously as possible for other equipment. Husbands and bachelors reluctantly begin to break in new pipes.

The air of cheerfulness disappears, and no one is startled if he gets a dark look and a muttered greeting. Santa Claus costumes are packed away, and radio entertainers forget about "Silent Night" and "The Christmas Carol" for another year.

It gets easy to write "1936" instead of "1935," and 1937 seems a long way in the future. So do next Christmas and next New Year's eve and everything that accompanies the two big occasions of the holiday season. The Christmas wreaths, the colored lights, the music, the celebration, the giving and the receiving—they were no less enjoyable than they always have been before. But, after all, if it always were the holidays, there wouldn't be any fun in living through them. It's the contrast that makes the fun, and the next 50 weeks can be depended on to provide plenty of contrast.

IN DEFENSE

A purely academic issue has been created by discussion of the propriety of a fan dancer receiving federal relief benefits for doing her routine. Are fan dancers entitled to relief?

As citizens of the United States and as human beings, they have a clear claim to work relief benefits. As fan dancers, their claim is far from clear. Fan dancing, as commonly performed, is questionable art. Still, it may be assumed a fan dancer has special talent. A tap dancer, for instance, would not be required to play "Hamlet" to make himself eligible for relief under the theatrical division of WPA. Why should a fan dancer be required to abandon her special art?

Disapproval of fan dancing on the part of many upstanding citizens is not a sufficient reason. All forms of entertainment have their critics. It cannot be assumed that fan dancing is intrinsically naughty; it is a question of viewpoint.

It is plain, however, that the academic approach to the matter is tricky. Here is one of those questions which calls for some bureaucratic ingenuity. Therefore, in a spirit of helpfulness, it is proposed that fan dancers applying for relief be grouped in a special class.

They should be permitted to wave their fans for their money. But, because of the stigma which common standards of morality places on their routine, audiences should be barred. All fan dancers needing relief should be required to dance for carefully selected groups of WPA officials, or for no audience at all. In that way, the fan wavers could get their money and audiences would get fewer fan dancers. That should prove satisfactory all around.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—The Rialto's most auspicious theatrical premiere a warm June evening in 1911 was like the sudden opening and closing of a door—and just as well remembered. It was a ghastly comedy of blunders, unrivaled in stage circles. A catastrophe that smashed up a fortune.

The theater, brand new, was called the Folies Bergere and is now the Fulton. Premiere seats were auctioned and Diamond Jim Brady paid $700 for a box to which he promenade his glittering wifely dangle on each arm. It was the first of the food and drink revues.

Rarely has such a cast been assembled. It included Ina Claire, Vera Maxwell, Ada Lewis, Mae West—at $35 a week—the Millership sisters, Bina Hoffman, Adeline Gebree, Carter De Haven, Otis Harlan, Taylor Holmes, Will Rogers—at $50 a week—the Pender troupe on stilts (remember?), Nat Wills and La Belle Titcomb.

Also Sam Goldfish, now Samuel Goldwyn, Harry Fox, Harry Piler, William Gordon, Bessie McCoy and the entire ballet from the Milan opera. At about the 6th scene, a fire main burst blowing a row of customers in a drenched huddle. Talent aplenty but no direction, it died aborning. A night to remember!

Several New Yorkers of prominence, one a railroad president, belong to a band of nickel and dime novel collectors with a membership of hundreds. They have a monthly called "The Happy Brotherhood" and while the organization is mostly for those exploiting a hobby there have been profitable yields in the barter and search. Now and then someone turns up a blood curdler worth more than its weight in gold. Barnes and garrets have yielded treasures among the yellowing Nick Carters, Young Klondykes, Might and Mains, Pluck and Lucks and

The Liberty Boys. One of the Vanderbilts and a former premier of Canada are collectors.

Florence Walton, after an eight-years exile in Paris, finds permanent return to her old stamping ground has only one regret—or rather three. Her three wire-haired terriers she was forced to leave with a devoted French maid. She could not bring so many dogs to a New York apartment, and so great is the attachment among them a veterinarian warned that separation might, through grief, cause tragic consequences. So, for the first time since her 8th birthday, Miss Walton is dogless.

Another effort of the old Montmartre night club on a Winter Garden corner to stage a comeback recalls some of its opulence of the original stand for an older generation. A room shrouded in clinging purplish gloom, it held No. 1 position season after season. Charlie Journal was the red haired autocrat of the entrance ropes and knew how to "dress the tables" with patrons who mattered. In the building the Castles "walked" and down Broadway in a side street cellar Justine Johnson's Little Club was always packed.

No producer has such trouble getting a show together as George White. He usually vacillates all over the lot but somehow manages to land on his feet to be greeted with the Rialto's stock accolade: "A smart little showman." He has rarely clicked the first time out. His very first production was one of the sorriest flops ever produced, even the critics deserting. Yet early the next morning he was rebuilding in the ruins, and in two weeks had a show that remained for nearly a year. He thrives on the worries that usually beset him and would cause others to quit in despair.

Movie glamour for even established top-runners is strikingly illustrated in the roar for Lily Pons. A Metropolitan star she was of course, on a pedestal, but only a limited number knew her by sight. Three weeks after her movie acclaim she was the center of a milling crowd everywhere. Heretofore she was sought for autographs largely by music lovers. But now she is the No. 1 Girl in The Great Autograph Chase.

My autographical adventures are ordinarily skimpy but now and then some misguided soul approaches and gives the ego a ride. The last time I was tackled was in a lobby of the Waldorf by a vibrant miss who explained that her Aunt Pamela, sitting on a nearby divan, would like my signature. I acquiesced before anyone could change his mind and the lady with me observed: "You have certainly become a heartthrob among the Aunt Pamelas."

Many city men bound to their niches in the man-made gibraltars of steel and stone respond to the outdoor tug by prowling through Abercrombie and Fitch's or the sporting goods departments of department stores. You can see them dry casting, peeping through gun sights or gazing longingly at camping outfits. The majority do not come to buy, just to look and dream. Among such prowlers are often, however, real hunters and fishermen, such as Rex Beach, Corey Ford and Bob Davis. Corey Ford, incidentally, has probably capitalized his adventures more profitably than any other writing fisherman.

Clara Bell Walsh's Skippy recently departed for a caper in Elysia. Skippy was one of the celebrated dogs of the avenue, a button-eyed midsize Sealyham with comic whiskers and the grand and grave manners of a patriarch. He had no truck with anyone save his mistress and her chauffeur, but he sat up in bored dignity for all who approached. His concluding year was spent in cataracted blackness but his head arched high. He crossed the finish line a thoroughbred.

FROM THE NEWS FILES

FORTY YEARS AGO.
(Issue of Jan. 2, 1896)

Att'y Hole left this morning for East Liverpool to attend a banquet to be given this evening by the Southern Columbiana County Bar association.

Mrs. S. E. Vernon of Iowa is the guest of her niece, Mrs. O. H. Bates of Newgardens st.

Miss Mary Southworth, who has been spending the holidays with her parents, Prof. and Mrs. G. C. S. Southworth of Lincoln ave., will leave tomorrow for Northampton, Mass., to resume her studies in the college there.

THIRTY YEARS AGO.

(Issue of Jan. 2, 1906)

Dr. J. B. Kirk of Jennings ave., and others are now engaged in securing signers to petitions which are being circulated among the residents of the first precinct. First ward, whereby barrooms may be voted out of the precinct.

George Phillips of Salem a year ago compiled a long list of Salem residents who were at that time over 70 years of age. The list contained about 200 names and since then Mr. Phillips has checked off the names of those who have died in the last year. His list shows that during the year 16 of the older residents have died.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

(Issue of Jan. 2, 1916)

Prof. of the property of the sanitary business is the fact that from Dec. 24 to Dec. 28 the National Sanitary Manufacturing company of Salem shipped 19 carloads of finished products to various points. City council will have at its disposal during the next year about $3,500 more than was spent in 1915. Food prices in the United States during 1914 were higher than at any time during the last 37 years with the exception of 1882.

THE STARS SAY

For Friday, January 3

A day of excellent prospects for advancement and progress is forecast from the predominant lunar and mutual aspects, although this may involve certain hazards of upheaval, change and rearrangement of plans and desires. A radical change may best promote these ambitions, although it should be wisely and conservatively managed. If concerned with established employment, there are fine prospects of support, preferment and favors of employers or superiors. Elders favor also and old deals may bring benefits, but be cautious with rings, mergers and secret bodies.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of fine opportunity for advancement, promotion and progress, although this may call for a radical change. A child born on this day may be brilliant, versatile and inventive, but may travel far, benefiting through insurance legacies.

NEURITIS

NEURITIS IS a distressing affliction. Unfortunately, it is too commonly neglected and becomes chronic in its nature. Then, like other chronic disturbances, it becomes difficult to correct. With early attention it may be overcome speedily.

Neuritis is the name given the inflammation of a nerve. One or more nerves may be involved. The sufferer complains of discomfort in that surface of the skin which is supplied by the affected nerve. For example, if the right facial nerve is involved the discomfort is confined to that side of the face.

The pain varies a lot. It may be no more than a burning or tingling sensation, or there may be a feeling of extreme discomfort. It is always increased by pressure and movement. If the nerve contains filaments which extend to certain muscles, the patient may complain of spasmodic contraction of these muscles.

Other Symptoms

Cramps and numbness of the involved part are other symptoms. In a severe case there may be actual paralysis of an arm or leg.

Neuritis may follow a fall, a blow, or some more severe injury. Usually the injury is overlooked, because no pain or discomfort is noted at the time of the accident. But when the nerve becomes inflamed there is sure to be pain.

Neuritis may follow the absorption of toxins, or poisons, from within the system. This may be the case if there is some center of infection as may be the case in diseased tonsils, adenoids nasal sinuses or teeth. Disease or infection of other organs may lead to neuritis.

Sometimes the condition is caused by poisoning. It may be seen in cases of chronic alcoholism, lead poisoning and mercury poisoning. The internal accumulation of any toxic substance will result in neuritis.

From Infections

It is encountered in some of the infectious diseases. For instance, a victim of grippe, influenza, diptheria or pneumonia may complain of pain along the facial nerve of the body. In such a case the irritation and inflammation are the result of an accumulation of poisons produced by the germs of the disease.

There are many forms of patent medicines, electrical appliances and other means of treatment which are recommended for the relief of neuritis. In my experience these are no more than of temporary value. Permanent relief is obtained only by determining the cause and removing it.

For acute pain, relief is often obtained by the application of a hot water bag or an electric pad. Strict attention to the diet is important. The patient should drink at least six or eight glasses of water every day. Avoid medication unless it is prescribed by your doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lehman returned home Sunday evening from a six-week stay in Florida.

The Harmony club will meet today at the home of Mrs. F. H. Grove, Canfield rd.

Foreign Policy Disputed

His political future threatened by agitation at home over his foreign policy, Premier Pierre Laval of France faced the prospect of removal from office. Premier Laval is pictured chatting with Anthony Eden, left, Britain's new foreign secretary, in Paris prior to their departure for Geneva where he revealed the policies which brought the storm of protest.

Center Of Human Brain Activities Is Discovered

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Associated Press Science Editor.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 2.—Discovery of a human brain center, the first definitely located, a bit of gray matter that specializes on only one kind of mental work, was described to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today.

This center is a spot near the top of the head which works the jaws. It was found by an electric telegraph line of exceedingly fine wires, placed for the first time directly in living tissues of gray matter. It is the first human contact confirmation that recent medical and other scientific brain studies are on the right track in belief that man's brain is organized like a department store.

The work was done through a brain window, a place where part of the skull of a normal healthy man had been permanently removed, leaving access to the brain through a thin covering of the scalp.

Dr. Edmund Jacobson, of the physiology department of the University of Chicago developed the electrical telegraph method of tapping the mental activities directly under this window. He has something like the famous work of Dr. William Beaumont, U. S. A. who made a window into the stomach of the Indian, Alexis St. Martin, in 1822 and gave the world its first accurate knowledge of digestion.

Experiment on Farmer

The brain window is in the head of a man, a dairy farmer. The fine wires cause no pain, and in the gray matter not even any feeling. They are placed during operations which last about two hours, then removed.

The jaw center which they have disclosed lies on a line drawn from the left temple, straight up, and about two-thirds of the way from the temple to the top of the head. It thus lies on the surface of the left half of the brain.

From this center when the jaws are at rest, flows a steady, pulsating electrical current, the same brain waves which scientists have previously identified from all parts of the brain with pick-up instruments placed outside the skull.

But when the farmer closes his jaws the current jumps in volume. The jaw center of brain matter suddenly develops a high electrical potential.

No other movement causes the slightest rise in potential or current, neither bending, moving legs, arms, stretching, hunching shoulders, arching the neck, or anything else the farmer can do readily while his head is "wired."

No kind of thought, imagination, or memory feat produces a current from the jaw center.

Then Becomes Active

"Whenever he closes his jaws tightly," Dr. Jacobson reported, "this particular spot in his brain became very active, but only so long as he continued to keep them tightly closed. When he relaxed his jaws this brain spot quieted down in the electrical activity—that is, it relaxed also.

CHAPTER XXVII

In the weeks that followed, Helen pondered over Dirk's advice. Yet away from them, without the constant danger of their intrusion, peace descended on Helen's household and her fears were lulled.

The countryside was on fire; the maple trees in the woods became brilliant autumn colors that slowly faded and died with the onset of winter. Each day the country had a new charm. November with its rain and fog spread a soft melancholy haze over the brown hills and bare trees, and coming in from the cold to her cheery living room with its books and magazines was a constant joy to Helen.

Marian came out every week and Belle came out Saturday morning. By December Helen was noticeably stouter and her figure took on a soft fullness that was enormously becoming to her. Her eyes were clear and her skin radiant. Walter thought she was more beautiful than ever. They knew only a few people at Bound Brook and so they had few visitors. They had long quiet evenings together.

They talked and read and on mild nights walked along the black country road by the aid of Walter's flashlight. Home again, the log fire burned cheerfully in the grate and Marie served hot chocolate and cookies on a brass tray. She fussed over Helen and scolded her husband in the kitchen and her forthright cheerful voice filled the house.

Helen was radiantly happy. She read voraciously and Walter coming in at night always had a briefcase full of magazines and books he had picked up. He brought the evening papers and stopped at the postbox for the mail.

They did silly things too alone on the farm; dear, silly things. They played acted and with the aid of Anton, who was ingenious at such things, they got up charades and parties in the library fell down and Walter dressed himself up in them as a pirate with the brass curtain rings as earrings and the leather duster as a plume in an old hat of Marie's.

Walter grinned to himself all the way into town the next morning. On the train he made elaborate plans for that night. He'd see if he could pick up a wig somewhere. He'd be Carmen. That would make Helen laugh. Must remember to stop in at the five-and-ten for some beads and stuff.

But when he got to 57th st. he changed his expression and walked gravely and somberly through the saloon into Irene's office.

She glanced at him from the phone. "It's Stella. She's going to have a kid. Yes, yes," into the phone, "I'm listening. Walter just came in. Well, for heaven's sake use your head. Fire her if you suspect her. Oh, stop dramatizing yourself! Listen, there've been millions of kids born before yours, yes, yes, and millions after. If you're sick, go home. Listen, mamma had a dozen of 'em and she was behind the counter twenty-four hours later. Bah!" Irene hung up on her.

"Jerry, it seems," she explained to Walter, "has an eye for one of the girls. My advice to Stella was to fire her although, as a matter of fact, I'd rather fire Jerry!"

"So would I."

"Well, I suppose we can't now that Stella is enceinte. I suppose she just couldn't stand your wife stealing all the thunder. How is she? Mamma fired Franz at last. I've an ad in the Times today for another chauffeur. I suppose I'll be swamped with men. What are you grinning about, Walt? You look like a tomcat!"

"Oh, nothing. What are you doing over Christmas? Why don't you come out to the farm?"

"No thanks. I loathe the country in the winter. I want to go to Charleston but Dirk's rather set on going to New Canaan with the Hon. Parents. We'll go to Charleston, however," she added grimly. "Oh, the new waves are taking. I've got more than a dozen orders for permanents. I think it's a go, Walt. You were right that time although I didn't believe women would trust that vicious-looking apparatus, but it seems I was wrong."

Walter was gleeful. "What did I tell you! I'm going to get Dahlia to work for us if I have to pay him fifteen thousand."

"Now listen, Walter, don't be foolish. Don't let a little praise go to your head. You'll burn one woman's head off and we're ruined."

"I tell you, Irene, he's an expert. There's no chance of it. I'm going to take him on. Where's Miss Ginsberg? I want a lot of publicity on this."

Irene shrugged. "It's your funeral, I warn you."

"I'm taking the risk."

"Well, I should hope so! Only so easy. You're going to have a lot of expenses now that Helen is having a child."

"You ought to get one yourself, Irene, before you're too old," he added brutally.

She raised her eyebrows. "Oh, really. When I want your expert advice on it, I'll remember to consult you," she snapped.

"I think Stella is wise. It might give Jerry a feeling of responsibility," he said placatingly.

"There's something in that," she said.

On February first Dirk resigned as publicity director of the Anti-Tuberculosis Association and went back to John Kayle as sales manager.

The Rileys were amazed but they were not long in finding out why Irene was to have a child.

She gained weight and spent hours lying down reading and sleeping. She never was a good sleeper, but now she couldn't get enough sleep. She adapted a language that had a pantherlike quality to it; she who had been so nervously energetic. She was tender and passionate and clinging with Dirk. She made him feel that he was the bulwark to which she clung. She was careful to stage her little nausaeas scenes when he was at home and clung to him afterward white and shaken. She felt surprisingly well and scarcely experienced any discomfort at all except when Dirk was at home, when she struggled bravely to bear the pain without wincing.

She enveloped him in love and whenever she saw him bitter or restless she came to his side and knelt before him, her strong white arms clasped about his waist, her throat with its throbbing veins against his breast.

"My lover, my husband," she whispered, "my man!"

She went to great lengths to please him; invited his friends in and spent hours with his parents. She smothered his resentment with her passion even before it had time to smolder. That this would eventually pall on him did not worry her. Then there would be the baby to thrill him and hold him.

Irene had so carefully laid her plans that Dirk was lost before he even knew what was happening. It was exactly as she had planned it that morning with Walter. She planted the idea of a son (Irene knew it couldn't be anything else) long before she actually conceived, and she idealized it. Then she sprang on him the fact that she was to have a baby.

The rest was easy. Her health couldn't stand the excitement and worry of the Salon; nor did her health permit the upheaval of moving into a cheaper apartment or giving up the luxuries to which she was accustomed. There were doctors' fees, nurse's money to be prepared. More money was needed. She even put the words into his mouth.

"We've got to have more money, Dirk."

"I can sell some bonds."

"That will help, darling, for the time being, but what will we do when they're all sold?"

"We've got to move out of here and live more rationally. This expensive menage is totally unnecessary."

"You're right, darling, but we can't yet!" Luckily she thought of it. We've got another year's lease, dear. And then, if something does go wrong in childbirth—darling, I don't know that it will, but sometimes these things happen!—You'll need those bonds to turn into money quickly."

"I know it, damn it. I hate to leave ourselves unprotected."

"There are my jewels," she suggested gently.

"Don't be an idiot," he snapped. "Darling, don't be impatient with me. Don't worry. You'll think of a way." She kissed him, then made a path of little kisses down his face and into his neck. She clung to him, her hold stiffening; her body grew taut as steel as she pressed against him.

He caught her suddenly to him with a little groan.

"I'll have to go back to Kayle,"

Will Be Questioned

In an effort to substantiate their claims that U. S. loans to the allies influenced our entry into the World War, the Senate Munitions Committee will call Thomas W. Lamont (above) and J. P. Morgan to the stand in Washington inquiry.

he croaked in her perfumed hair. "No you don't, dear. Maybe there's another way," she whispered, her eyes gleaming.

When, by an amazing coincidence, Kayle again offered Dirk his old job, this time he accepted it. If he secretly suspected Irene's fine Italian hand, he preferred not to think of it.

SCHOOLS BANK ON LEGISLATURE

Ohio Institutions Confident That Aid Will Be Forthcoming

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Jan. 2. — A half-year-old snarl of the finances of six state-supported universities, a result of Gov. Martin L. Davey's $8,785,000 slash in the biennial appropriations bill, loosened noticeably today.

Paul P. Yoder, Democratic floor leader in the Ohio senate, said the legislature undoubtedly would pass a deficiency bill to provide coal, food, and other necessities to the institutions, threatened with closing because of rapidly diminishing coal piles. The legislature reconvenes Jan. 6.

Governor Davey vetoed these items last June, intending to make them up by transfers from non-voted items, such as salaries. The state supreme court held such transfers unconstitutional.

Officials of the universities seemed confident that the legislature would help them. The state control board, acting on an opinion by Atty. Gen. John W. Bricker, refused yesterday to provide emergency funds for coal and other necessary operating purposes for 1936.

Bricker held that another transfer proposed by Davey, to shift funds from unexpended 1935 appropriations into the coal fund, would border on contempt of the state supreme court in view of the earlier decision.

Davey, in Cleveland, repeated past assertions that the budget crisis of the universities was up to the control board. He declined to comment on Bricker's opinion.

Carl Steeb, business manager of Ohio State, received Yoder's prediction of a deficiency bill enthusiastically and added:

"The situation is getting so tight that the legislature will have to do something."

He said a special meeting of the board of trustees would be called immediately to decide whether the university would reopen Jan. 7 after the Christmas holidays. The university, he said, has only enough coal to last until Monday.

Yoder said the deficiency bill could supplement the biennial appropriations bill and provide for the entire year, if necessary.

Yet he warned that the legislature had to eliminate $3,000,000 from the biennial budget bill before it could be passed and approved.

The house and senate have both approved revised bills calling for restorations of between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 after the vetoes. Neither has been able to agree with the other and get one bill to Davey.

Davey, for his part, has set a limit of $1,000,000 in restorations and asserted he will veto the entire revised bill if calls for more. He characterized the proposed restorations as "a raid on the treasury."

C. C. Jenkins, business manager of Wilberforce university, state supported negro school, said he was not alarmed.

"I feel it will be cleared up," he said. "The legislature will do something."

Wilberforce, he said, has sufficient coal to last a few more weeks but no funds to replenish the present supply.

Kent State university said its president, Dr. J. O. Engelman, will reopen after the Christmas holidays although the coal supply will last only until Jan. 5.

Kent had asked the control board for a $2,000 transfer from its 1935 salary budget for a two-month coal supply. Ohio university asked $5,000 salaries for coal, $2,000 for magazines, $2,000 for library books, and $1,000 for general plant equipment.

When the board refused to make the transfers, officials of Ohio State, Wilberforce, Bowling Green State university, and the Western experiment station withheld their requests.

Series Of Parties Conclude Holiday Social Events Here

New Year's eve and afternoon social activities concluded the list of holiday events in Salem.

On New Year's eve Elks and their guests enjoyed the annual dance at the lodge home. Archie Neff and his Night Hawks from Canton played for dancing from 10 to 3:30 a. m. The hall was beautifully decorated in silver and blue. Guests attended from Alliance, Sebring, Canton and Cleveland. More than 200 couples enjoyed the affair.

Roy Kerr, chairman of the entertainment committee, was in charge of the dance.

Members of the Three Links Social club of the I. O. O. F. were entertained at a delightful watch party and dance New Year's eve at the Odd Fellows hall.

Cards and dancing were features of the evening and at midnight a

"snowball fight" was held. A huge white ball, filled with small ones, was brought into the hall and opened. Guests from Cleveland, Damascus, Berlin Center and Salem and vicinity were awarded prizes for the dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heston were in charge of the affair, attended by about 75 members and guests.

The Calumet club's annual tea dance was given New Year's afternoon at the Elks home, sponsored by Miss Virginia Harris and W. K. Gibson. Jack Bernhart's orchestra played for the dance.

Mrs. Frank Harris, Mrs. W. H. Dunn, Mrs. Ramsden Demire, Mrs. Robert Campbell, Miss Virginia Harris and Miss Katherine Gibson poured during the afternoon. About thirty couples enjoyed the affair.

Accessories Important to Stylish Wardrobe

The winter season has brought with it many smart and effective accessories, most of them practical as well as decorative. Anita Louise acquired an effective article for her dressing table when a holiday gift of chocolates came in a stunning box covered with pale green satin and decorated with tiny leaves of gold kid. Ornaments for the hair, such as the rhinestone clusters with emerald centers worn by Patricia Ellis, do wonders in setting off a handsome gown. Margaret Lindsay is the possessor of a vanity, both decorative and practical, one which has a compartment for cigarettes, container for change, and places where one may carry a comb, handkerchiefs and cosmetics.

Announce Marriage In Youngstown

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Erma J. Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George O. Adams of Sebring to George Brown of Salem, the ceremony having taken place in Trinity Methodist Episcopal church in Youngstown on Tuesday, Dec. 28.

Rev. W. E. Hammaker performed the ceremony. Attendants were Miss Louise Powell and Floyd Adams, brother of the bride. A dinner was served following the ceremony at the bride's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown left for Hammond, Ind., where Mr. Brown has been employed for some time. They will go to their newly furnished home there. They were accompanied to Hammond by Mrs. Brown's brother, Floyd Adams, who will make his home for the present with them as he is employed in Hammond.

Weirton-Youngstown Couple To Wed

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Betty Arlene Davidson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Albert E. Davidson of Holidays Cove, W. Va. to George J. Renner, IV, Youngstown. No date is set for the wedding.

The engagement was made known at a luncheon given by Mrs. Davidson Dec. 30 at the Williams country club, Weirton, W. Va.

Renner is well known among the younger set here.

Youngstown Girl Is December Bride

Miss Franziska Walker, daughter of Mrs. Frank Granville Walker, Bryson st., Youngstown, was married to Benjamin Holly Rose, Jr., at the Blackstone hotel in New York City Dec. 28. They are now aboard the S. S. Queen bound for a wedding trip in Bermuda.

Both Mrs. Rose and her mother, Mrs. Walker, are well known in Salem.

Mrs. Howard Loudon To Be Hostess

Mrs. Howard R. Loudon will receive members of the Ruth circle of the First Friends church at 7:30 p. m., Friday at her home on Jennings ave. Roll call will be scripture verses of the motto, "Jesus Only." All members are asked to be present.

Newlyweds Guests At Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Grissinger of Euclid st., entertained at a family dinner New Year's day in honor of their grandson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bruce Arnold, who were married on Tuesday. Mrs. Arnold is the former Miss Virginia Loch of Lisbon.

Harris Class Will Have Dinner

Harris class members of the Christian church will have a covered dinner tonight at the church prior to the regular meeting which will be an important business session.

Ladies Aid to Meet

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid society will meet Friday at the church in the regular quarterly session. A 6 o'clock luncheon in charge of Division 1 will precede the executive meeting at 2 p. m. and the business meeting at 2:30.

Marriage License

Arthur L. Swaney and Nita M. Daniels of Salem have been granted a marriage license at Lisbon.

Miss Louise Calkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Calkins of South Lincoln ave., has gone to Houston, Tex., where she has accepted a position in the Evangelical School of the Bible. Dr. Nell Morris, one of the foremost and best of the school.

Miss Lee Cook of St. Catharines, Ontario, has returned home after a visit over the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. George Murphy of Columbia st., and Mr. and Mrs. George Matthews of Wilson st.

Mrs. Mary Carr Curtis and brother, J. Albert Carr, of Damascus, left yesterday for Zephyrhills, Fla., to spend the winter with their sister, Mrs. H. S. Jackson.

E. E. Stoner of Philadelphia is seriously ill of pneumonia, according to word received here. Mr. and Mrs. Stoner and daughter Beatrice formerly lived in Salem.

M. S. Templeton of Los Angeles, is a guest of his mother, Mrs. Melinda Templeton, and his sister, Mrs. L. E. Beery, North Ellsworth ave.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Crapster were in Pittsburgh over New Year's day.

Mrs. Ed Weingart Club Hostess

Goshen Harmony club members enjoyed the annual Christmas covered dinner on New Year's day at the home of Mrs. Ed Weingart on the Patmos rd. Children of the members were special guests and several friends of the club members were entertained also.

The long tables were attractively decorated in holiday design and colors. Following the dinner a Christmas gift exchange was a feature of the afternoon with outdoor games entertaining the youngsters.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Ralph Ovington on the Patmos rd. on Jan. 30.

Buffet Dinner At Leeper Home

Mr. and Mrs. Burr Leeper entertained 16 friends at a buffet dinner at their home on Tenth st., New Year's eve. Mrs. Leeper was assisted at the dinner by her granddaughters, Miss Martha Ann Zimmerman, of Cleveland.

Mrs. C. W. Hunt won the prize at bridge, which was played following the dinner.

Would-Be Brides Face Good Field Of Bachelors In '36

By M. E. COLLINS, Associated Press Staff Writer.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—The finest crop of leap year bachelors in recent times sought cover today as they faced a 366 day open season on men without wives.

Unattached women eyed New York, Washington, Chicago and Hollywood as the most promising game preserves for 1936 matrimonial quarry.

Heading the list of eligibles in New York were:

Frank Crowninshield, 63, editor of "Vanity Fair" and record holder of New York's "most eligible bachelor" title. For good measure he has been dubbed the city's "most chivalrous gentleman."

Eligible?—Quite
Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. In his middle twenties, he is eligible for a number of reasons including the heirship to between 10 and 20 million dollars. His hobby is racing horses.

Harvey Ladew, social leader. Recommended for those who prefer the country gentleman type.

Jimmy and Woolworth Donahue, brothers. These grandsons of the late F. W. Woolworth, five-and-ten-cent store founder, and heirs to his fortune, have been reported engaged frequently but so far it hasn't meant anything. They are cousins of the former Barbara Hutton. Handsome and fun-loving.

At the nation's capital these have been highly rated:
J. Edgar Hoover, darkly handsome chief of the romanticized "G-men." Observers predict that the hunter of men may find himself among the hunted.

Baby of Senate
Sen. Rush D. Holt of West Virginia, 30 year old "baby of the senate."

Sen. David I. Walsh, Massachusetts. He hunts, travels and collects rare art but so far has avoided being collected.

Turner W. Battle, Jr., assistant secretary of labor. A member of a famous old North Carolina family.

Charles Lee Cook, state department ceremonial officer, described as the "perfection of punctiliousness."

Augusta Rosso, handsome ambassador from Italy.

Chicago has these, among others: Melvin Purvis, ex-"G-man" and credited with engineering the extinction of the outlaw, Dillinger. Shy and inclined to wariness.

Dr. Arthur Metz, chief surgeon of the Milwaukee road and occasional big game hunter. Of matrimony, he comments: "I'd sooner face a lion."

Hollywood Bachelors
Arthur Meeker, Jr., young business leader and society man, who says his secretary (male) handles all difficult situations.

Governor Henry Horner of Illinois. Plans to spend all his energy running for re-election.

West coast handicappers selected these from Hollywood because they haven't been married even once: Dick Powell, 28; Fred MacMurray, 26; Randolph Scott, 32; Henry Wilcoxon, 28; Gene Raymond, 25; and Nelson Eddy, 31.

Joins Crime Drive

ATHENS, Jan. 2.—Common Pleas Judge O. F. Rowland joined today in an anti-gambling drive conducted by county officials.

Fining Ralph Slaughter and Tom Coury $500 and costs each for operating gambling places. Judge Rowland said his court would "exert itself to establish in Athens a sovereignty of law and order that will be inviting for fathers and mothers to send their boys and girls here in our midst." Ohio university is located here.

The judge suspended all but $50 and costs on condition that the two men never again engage in gambling in the county.

NOTICE
On and after this date, January 2, 1936, I will not be responsible for credit extended to anyone other than myself.

LET'S LOOK at the RECORD

Many thousands of folks have borrowed here over the past 23 years (240,550 loans made).

A REAL RECORD

The only reason why a very small number of these folks did not repay was because of unforeseen circumstances beyond their control.

WHY THIS RECORD

Because we have found that the great majority of folks are honest and do pay if they have a chance.

FOR YOUR RECORDS

Remember, The City Loan makes it easy for borrowers to pay. Rates are fair, terms are most attractive. You will find a cordial welcome awaiting you.

Pass Paves Way For Stanford Touchdown That Whips Mustangs

Indians Use Favorite Weapon of S. M. U. To Win 7 to 0 Victory and Vindicate Themselves for Past Defeats In the Rose Bowl

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN, Associated Press Sports Writer.
PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2.—The Stanford Indians had every reason to believe in the "third time's the charm" adage today after trying halters on the hitherto untamed Mustangs from Southern Methodist in the 21st Rose Bowl game.

The big red team of the west, using the favorite weapon of the Mustangs, won 7 to 0 and vindicated itself after distressing defeats in the last two years of Rose tournament play.

One determined thrust late in the first period turned the trick but in the long run a valuable lesson on pass defense learned at a costly price on the Rose Bowl sod a year ago made the lone touchdown stand up.

For it was the fierce rushing of the pass throwers of Coach Matty Bell's famed aerial circus that figured so largely in the upset which surprised a heavy share of the 85,000 persons who crammed into the historic bowl.

Pass Paves Way
Fittingly enough, it was a pass that paved the way for Stanford's touchdown. A 22-yard throw, Bill Paulmen to stocky Jimmy Coffis, put the ball in scoring territory and the Indians took full advantage.

From the 19-yard line, where Coffis was tackled as he grabbed the throw, Bobby Grayson and Bobby Hamilton packed the pigskin to the 2-yard stripe and Paulman slid off tackle to score. James (Monk) Moscrip promptly and accurately kicked goal.

For the Mustangs it was the first time they had been behind in any of the 12 games played this season. The fans—the western ones—went wild. Coach Bell gave his battered grey hat a tug.

Unconcerned about it all was Peruna, the Southern Methodist pony mascot. He never stirred.

Hold Mustangs
While Stanford never could quite muster up the strength to cross the Mustangs' goal again, the Indians quite effectively prevented the champions of the southwest from doing much about the situation either.

Obviously the great aerial display of Alabama a year ago still was ranking in the hearts of the Indians, for they viciously rushed the pitching artists of S. M. U., continuously and permitted only a few of the throws to be completed when they might do the most harm.

The one lapse came in the second period and Southern Methodist took full advantage of it. Starting on their own 25, Coach Bell's players, led by the brilliant Bobby Wilson, drove 75-yards only to be disappointed.

Crowning Feat
The crowning feat in this parade was a forward double lateral pass play that ate up 34 of these yards and almost became a touchdown play.

Wilson, playing up to his All-American name, flipped a 10-yard forward pass to Harry Shuford. As the Stanford secondary closed in on Shuford he tossed a lateral to Mace Stewart. The end in turn relayed the ball to Bob Finley who finally was pulled down on the 5-yard line. On the next play a fumble gave the ball to Stanford.

The triumph put the west out in front by two games over the 21 years of play with 9 victories and 7 defeats, discounting the two service games of the World war period.

T. C. U. WINS 3-2 IN SUGAR BOWL

Field Goal In Second Period Gives Horned Frogs Victory

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2.—Bernie Moore, coach of the Louisiana State university football team, was skeptical today that Texas Christian university's 3 to 2 victory in the Sugar Bowl game was a conclusive test of the squads.

"My conclusion of the game was that the slippery field eliminated at least 50 per cent of the offensive power of both teams," he said, but added, "we have no alibi."

Flas Game
L. R. "Dutch" Meyer, coach of T. C. U., said he thought yesterday's contest before a capacity crowd of 35,000 persons was the "finest I've ever seen played in the rain."

L. S. U. and T. C. U. have played each other three times but in none of those games has a touchdown been scored. T. C. U. won 3 to 0 with a field goal in 1931 and the next year the teams got a field goal apiece to tie at 3-3.

Yesterday's "baseball score" game was a thriller which kept the spectators in their seats despite a slow rain which fell throughout the second half.

The mighty Sam Baugh, T. C. U. back and Abe Mickal, L. S. U. star, didn't engage in the expected passing duel because of the wet field but each tossed a few which threatened scores.

L. S. U. Scores
L. S. U. scored in the second quarter after passes and runs brought the ball to the T. C. U. two-inch line where it changed hands on downs. When Baugh attempted to pass from behind the goal, he stepped over the end zone, automatically giving L. S. U. a safety for a two-point lead.

The Texans came back in the same period to recover a Louisiana fumble on the Louisiana 40 and push down to the L. S. U. 18. Tadon Manthorn then kicked a field goal from the Tiger 25.

From that point on the game was a battle of mighty defenses.

In the fourth, line plunges by Crass took the ball to the T. C. U. two but again the Louisiana team was unable to go over. Texas, recovering a fumble, drove down to the L. S. U. five shortly afterwards but lost nine yards in four tries.

L. S. U. made nine first downs to six for T. C. U. and gained 204 yards rushing and passing to 173 for T. C. U.

HOLYOKE, Mass. — Al Mercer, Springfield, Mass., defeated Jack Gansan, California, two straight falls.

N.E.O. Big Six Teams Involved In 6 Games Friday And Saturday

Salem High Cagers Will Have Undefeated Record At Stake In Tilt With Youngstown Team At High School

With revenge for a 32 to 23 setback they received from Youngstown Chaney in the district tournament last year foremost in their minds, the Quaker basketballers of Salem High school entertain the Steel City quintet at the high school gymnasium tomorrow night in one of the six contests over the weekend involving Northeastern Ohio Big Six league teams.

Chaney's tournament victory over the Quakers last year, after it had been defeated 39 to 18 during the regular season, was one of the biggest surprises of the 1934-35 hardwood campaign and an undesirable blot on the Red and Black team's record. It is the hope of Coach Herb Brown's present Quaker quintet that it may avenge last year's defeat by registering an impressive victory over the Youngstowners tomorrow.

While the Quakers will have an undefeated record at stake, having chalked up victories in their only three games so far this season, the Chaney quintet will be seeking its second win in four games. The Youngstown lads have dropped the decision to Dover, one of the leading teams in the district, and Struthers to date while they marked up their only victory of the present campaign by trouncing Hubbard.

Two Games
Two games will be played at the High school tomorrow night, the Quaker and Chaney reserve teams meeting at 7:30 and the varsity quintets tangling at 8:30.

N. E. O. Big Six circuit teams will participate in two other contests tomorrow, one an inter-league fray between Alliance and Massillon and the other a non-loop game between Struthers and Youngstown South.

On Saturday night two inter-league games will be played when Niles meets Alliance and Barberton engages Massillon while one non-circuit fray is scheduled in Struthers' contest with Youngstown East.

The feature contest of the week-end appears to be the Barberton-Massillon fray where two undefeated teams of the loop will tangle.

Barberton, with six victories so far this season, is perhaps the classiest of the two quintets. However, Massillon, which easily downed Struthers in its opening game of the season and then followed with a win over New Philadelphia, is rated as the coming team of the league and should give the Magies an interesting evening.

Alliance does not expect to make much of a showing in its game with Massillon tomorrow but has been pointing toward a victory over Niles in its Saturday contest. The Aviators looked good against Cuyahoga Falls two weeks ago but were an easy victim for Akron North, defending state champions last Friday. Niles has scored victories in its games with Alliance the past two years but previous to this had been the victim of the Aviators in four engagements.

Theater Attractions

The mystery classic, "Seven Keys to Baldpate" (Earl Derr Biggers), will be the attraction Friday at the State theater. Gene Raymond is cast in the leading role of a successful writer of adventure stories, and Margaret Callahan, new and rapidly rising young actress, formerly from Cleveland, has the role of the "lady in distress".

The mystery-drama with its amusing farce situations has long been a classic of the Broadway stage and has been made both in silent and talking screen versions. Others in the cast are Erin O'Brien Moore, Eric Blom, Moroni Olsen, Grant Mitchell, Henry Travers, Murray Alper and Harry Bernard.

The action of the play all takes place within a few hours on a mid-winter night at a deserted mountain inn, where Raymond as Magee, writer, has retreated to turn out a new book. Believing the place to be deserted, himself in possession of the only key to the place, he anticipates peace and instead plunges into a nest of gangsters and other intruders whose frantic pursuit of an elusive fortune leads to far stranger incidents than he ever created for his books.

An extra added attraction with the mystery feature is the ringside films of the Joe Louis-Paulino Uzcudun boxing event at Madison Square garden.

Ginger Rogers and George Brent will be seen for the last time tonight at the State in "In Person".

The Grand offers a western, starring Buck Jones in "Sunset of Power" (Universal) with Muriel Evans and lovely Dorothy Dix. "Sunset of Power" tells the story

Gene Raymond and Margaret Callahan, stars of "Seven Keys to Baldpate", showing at the State Friday only.

O. a vindictive, ruthless cattle baron who finds in Buck Jones a match for his own feats of daring. The picture shows at the Grand Friday and Saturday.

Vendor Loses

MARION, Jan. 2.—A mint vending machine owner lost yesterday an effort to secure a permanent injunction against interference with his machines by police.

Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young refused to make permanent an injunction secured several weeks ago by R. G. Parman of Columbus. Parman contended that the particular machine involved was not a gambling device because of its method of operation.

Zasu Pitts

Pasquale Di Cicco

Three important figures in the investigation into the strange death of Thelma Todd, blonde screen star, are pictured in Los Angeles when they appeared for questioning by the grand jury—right, Pasquale Di Cicco, former husband of the dead actress, who flew from New York City to testify that "I have no idea how Thelma died"; left, Zasu Pitts, screen actress and friend of Miss Todd, conversing with Roland West, Thelma's business partner.

NEW LIGHTING SCHEDULE FILED

Suburban, Rural Areas in Youngstown Division Are Affected

A—A base bill will be established as the bill under the immediate rate for each month of the year 1935. New customers first connected during this period or thereafter will be billed under the immediate rate until the first twelve months have elapsed to establish the base bill.

This will not affect customers in Salem, Lisbon and Leetonia where base bills have been established.

B—The immediate rate applies whenever the bill under the immediate rate is equal to or less than the base bill.

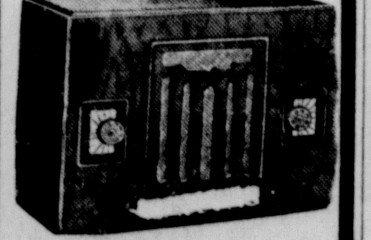

C—The objective rate applies whenever the bill under the objective rate is equal to or greater than the base bill, except that whenever such bill is less than the base bill the base bill will be applied.

Commercial Schedule
The commercial lighting schedules in the suburban and rural territory will be simplified by the application of a block rate similar in form to the block rate developed for Youngstown. In this rate there is no demand charge or consideration of the size of the customer's load, except in the application of the minimum charge.

The new rate will be as follows:
6c net per kw-hr. first 100 kw-hrs.
5c net per kw-hr. next 500 kw-hrs.
4c net per kw-hr. next 500 kw-hrs.
3c net per kw-hr. over 3000 kw-hrs.

Minimum Charge
$1.00 net for the first 5 kw. of connected load.
50c net for each additional kilowatt of connected.

A new optional rate of benefit to long hour users will also be made.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up".

Harmonious, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 2c.
